PROPOSAL · NOVEMBER 2026

WONDERLAND × WORKSHOP COFFEE

Performance marketing, built properly.

A proposal to set up and run Meta and Google for Workshop Coffee: foundations first, creative that looks like Workshop, and a weekly testing rhythm that finds what scales.

Meta & Google | Shopify + Klaviyo data layer | £15k initial test budget | Weekly iteration

PREPARED FOR WORKSHOP COFFEE

01 · THE ENGAGEMENT

Workshop has the brand. Paid media hasn't started yet.

Today every Workshop customer arrives through the cafés, word of mouth, organic search, wholesale and email. That's a strong base, and it means paid media starts from a clean slate with no bad habits to unwind.

We'd build Workshop's performance marketing from the ground up: the data and measurement layer first, then a focused launch on Meta and Google, then a weekly testing rhythm that finds what's worth scaling. Every ad should look and read like Workshop. Paid media that cheapens a brand to hit a short-term number is a bad trade, and we won't make it.

01 — WEEKS 1–2

Foundations

Server-side tracking, a clean product feed, audience segments and automated data syncs from Shopify and Klaviyo.

02 — WEEKS 3–4

Launch

The first campaigns live on Meta and Google, built to best practice and funded from a £15k initial test budget.

03 — EVERY WEEK

Iterate

A weekly read on backend numbers, decisions agreed with you, and new tests in market the same week.

04 — END OF MONTH 3

Review

We decide together whether the account needs a higher rhythm to scale, or settles into an always-on channel.

INITIAL TERM	TEST BUDGET	RHYTHM	RETAINER
3 months	£15,000	Weekly	£3,500
Then reviewed together	Initial, built to scale up	Our fastest iteration cycle	Per month, months 1–3

02 · FOUNDATIONS

The plumbing, done once and done right.

Most of what makes paid media work is decided before the first ad goes live. In the first two weeks we connect Shopify and Klaviyo to Meta and Google, so the platforms see accurate sales, know who your customers already are, and have a clean catalogue to advertise from.

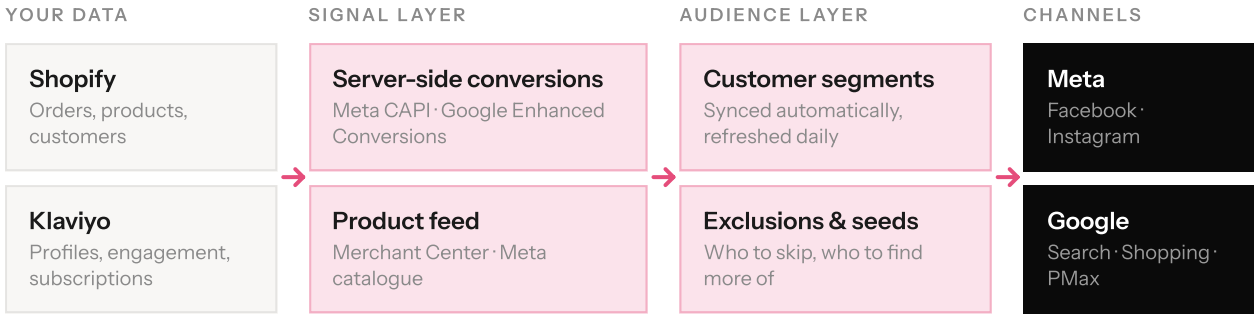

FIG. 1 One data layer feeding both channels. Set up once in weeks 1–2, then it runs itself.

Measurement

Meta Pixel with Conversions API and Google Ads with Enhanced Conversions, both server-side via Shopify and deduplicated. Consent Mode v2, GA4 aligned, one UTM taxonomy. The platforms optimise on real purchases; we report on Shopify's numbers.

Product feed

One feed from Shopify into Merchant Center and the Meta catalogue. Titles rewritten the way people shop for coffee: origin, process, roast and tasting notes. Labels for bestsellers, new releases, subscriptions and margin, so spend goes where it should.

Audience segments

Built from Shopify order history and Klaviyo engagement: subscribers, repeat buyers, one-time buyers, lapsing customers, and engaged email readers who haven't bought yet. Each segment has a job: exclude, retain, win back, or seed lookalikes.

Data syncs

Klaviyo and Shopify segments sync automatically to Meta Custom Audiences and Google Customer Match, so audiences stay current without anyone re-uploading lists. New-customer goals on both platforms weight spend towards people who've never bought from you.

03 · LAUNCH

Meta and Google, in Workshop's voice.

The first campaigns follow current best practice on both platforms: simple structures, broad targeting led by creative, and feed-led shopping. The guardrails below keep the work adding to the brand rather than spending it down.

i. Product and craft first

Creative built from the coffee, the roasting, the cafés and the people behind them, not from discount codes.

ii. Offers used deliberately

First-order and subscription incentives are tested as levers, not left running as the default.

iii. Frequency kept in check

Caps on retargeting, so no one sees the same ad a dozen times in a week.

iv. The name protected

Brand search covered, so competitors and resellers don't sit above Workshop when people search for you.

CHANNEL	CAMPAIGN	JOB	INITIAL SPLIT
META	Prospecting Advantage+ Sales, broad, creative-led	Find new customers who've never heard of Workshop	£6,750
META	Catalogue & retargeting Feed-led, in brand frames	Bring back browsers and abandoned baskets	£2,250
GOOGLE	Performance Max / Shopping Feed-led, new-customer goal	Show up when people are already shopping for coffee	£3,750
GOOGLE	Non-brand search Speciality beans, subscriptions, gifting	Capture high-intent category searches	£1,500
GOOGLE	Brand search Exact and phrase, tightly capped	Protect the name and catch direct demand	£750
TOTAL	Meta 60% · Google 40%	Rebalanced weekly on backend results	£15,000

FIG. 2 Indicative split of the £15,000 initial test budget. Weighted to Meta to create demand; money moves between lines every week, following what Shopify says rather than what the platforms claim.

04 · RHYTHM

Weekly. The fastest rhythm we recommend.

Any faster and you're reacting to noise. Any slower and a test budget spends a month learning what it could have learned in a week.

MONDAY

Read

Performance reviewed on Shopify backend data: new customers, cost per new customer, first-order return.

TUESDAY

Decide

Priorities agreed with you: what to cut, what to keep, what to scale, what to test next.

WED – THU

Build

New creative, audiences and feed changes built, QA'd and live in the accounts the same week.

FRIDAY

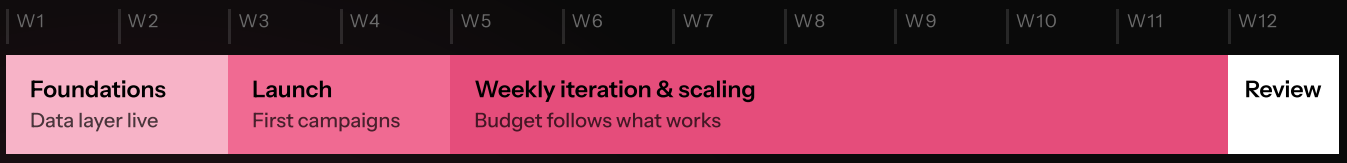

Write

A short written note: what changed, what we learned, and what's coming next week.

WHAT WE TEST, WEEK TO WEEK

- Creative angles & formats
- Audiences & segments
- Offers, bundles & gifting
- Subscription vs one-off
- Landing & product pages
- Feed titles & imagery

THE FIRST TWELVE WEEKS

> Every test is designed to be read. If something doesn't work, you hear it from us first, in writing, with what we're doing about it.

05 · WHO YOU'D WORK WITH

We've built this from zero before.

Wonderland runs performance marketing for consumer brands and B2B companies, with the same senior team doing the work that sells it.

£0 → £50k

monthly paid social spend, built from scratch

CLOSEST MATCH

Bleach London

A brand-led consumer business with no paid social. We introduced it, built the foundations and scaled it to £50k a month. The same starting point as Workshop today.

CURRENT	PREVIOUSLY
Sunday Citizen · all growth marketing, multi-market ecommerce, $400k monthly spend	Dropps · £300k/month of Meta at first-order profitable CAC
Huel · Google Ads	Manual · organic traffic from zero to 140k monthly visits
Personio · Google, LinkedIn and Meta Ads	Silverbird · paid spend from £30k to £250k/month

"Before Michael, our growth was a set of channels. Now it's an engine. He set P&L-first targets from day one, which changed every conversation we have about spend."

FIONA KUZIAN · CMO, SUNDAY CITIZEN

LEAD

Michael Lorenzos

Main point of contact. Strategy and senior oversight across both channels.

DAY TO DAY

Senior Performance Manager

Builds, QA, pacing, bidding and weekly tests on Meta and Google.

AVAILABILITY

Weekly call · daily Slack

One-day lag between an agreed action and it landing in the account.

06 · COMMERCIALS

Simple to start. Priced to the work.

One flat monthly fee for the first three months. After that, the fee follows the workload the account needs, in either direction.

MONTHS 1–3

£3,500 / month + VAT

Everything in this proposal, from the data layer to weekly iteration.

INCLUDED

- Tracking, product feed, segments and data syncs
- Campaign build and launch on Meta and Google
- Weekly iteration, budget pacing and QA
- Weekly call and written weekly note

AT THE END OF MONTH 3, WE REVIEW TOGETHER

PATH A · SCALE

Higher rhythm

The account is capturing more spend and needs more testing to keep growing: more creative, more campaigns, more tests a week. The retainer steps up to match, agreed with you before anything changes.

Steps up / scoped to the workload

PATH B · ALWAYS-ON

Steady state

Paid media settles into a reliable, lower-intensity channel that mainly needs maintaining, refreshing and pacing. The retainer drops to reflect the lighter workload.

£2,500 / month + VAT

- Three-month initial term, then rolling monthly with same-month notice.
- We work from your existing photography and video, cut for each placement, and brief new assets when tests call for them.
- Flat fee, not a percentage of spend. Media is paid directly to Meta and Google and never marked up.
- Reporting on Shopify backend data, so results are measured in new customers and revenue, not platform claims.
